The old adage "Murder will out" has again been verified by the confession of Andy Taylor, who at last falls into the hands of the law, and should there be no legal laxity or outbreak of ignorant passion, the demands of justice will be met by the speedy execution of the outlaw.

The police force of Chattanooga has been transmogrified, and now consists of ten Democrats and two Republicans, and the changes, it is said, give general satisfaction. We should like to know what politics can have, or ought to have to do with running a man in, trying a door handle, or apprehending a sneak thief.

The newspapers of Tennessee are full of particulars of enquirers and settlers, and at no previous period has the State received the attention it is now attracting from capitalists, agriculturists, and others desirous investing within its borders. There is such diversified wealth in the valleys and uplands of East Tennessee that no one need go away empty, but all, if they have a mind to, may succeed well, and, perhaps, considering all things, do better than in any other section of the Union.

The dynamite revolutionists are coming to the front in the civilized countries of Europe, but England has been too solidly built up to be effectually hurt by them. The only way for the "old order giving place to new," in that country, will be in the wisely compromising temper of legislators, and the gradually and solidly changing opinion of the masses of society. There is to-day much quiet ferment in English life, but it will not break out into violence and sudden shiftings of society. It will rather gradually grow until the whole is leavened, and no philosopher or historian will be able to say the date of the plunting of the seed or the blossoming of the flower.

Drilling for Coal, Iron and Oil.

An event of much interest and importance to the residents on the Cumberland Plateau occurred during he past week, in the arrival of two steam drills for testing in Fentress county the extent of the coalfield that has been by outcroppings, and drives satisfactorily proven to underlay, if not the whole county, the greater portion of it.
